MEDICAL SOCIETY IN SESSION HERE

Physicians of County Hold First Meeting Since Summer Vacation at Library.

PAPER BY DR. T. C. KENNEDY

Indianapolis Physician Explains Autolysin, New Treatment For Cancer.

The first meeting of the Jackson County Medical Society since the summer vacation was held at the Library this afternoon. There was a good attendance, quite a number of the members living in various parts of the county being present. Dr. G. G. Graessle, of this city, president of the Society presided.

The first paper on the program was one written by the late Dr. Samuel Wort, and read before the Indiana State Medical Society May 19th, 1857. The subject was, "The Influence and Value of Mercury in the Treatment of Fever, Dysentery and Kindred Diseases." The paper was read by Mr. Alpha Cox, grandson of the late Dr. Wort, and was appreciated for its exposition of treatment, and the theory and practice in this county in 1857. The paper has much historical value, and was highly interesting to the local society.

The main interest of the meeting was centered in the paper presented by Dr. Thos. C. Kennedy, of Indianapolis, on the subject of "Cancer." Dr. Kennedy has recently returned from New York where he studied the work of Beebe and Horowitz, who are working with a treatment for cancer, and which they have named Autolysin. Dr. Kennedy not only presented this subject, but covered other recent researches made in the study of cancer. He also presented some patients now under treatment, who were permitted to be questioned by the local physicians.

"It seems to be the consensus of opinion that surgery should be resorted to in all cases of cancer seen early enough, but all speak discouragingly of the results obtained," said Dr. Kennedy. He said that it was hardly possible for surgery to become more radical than shown in the Halstead operations for breast cancer, and the Wertheim operation for uterine cancer. Bell, of London, and Bulkley of New York, in their teachings show we are slowly approaching the time when less surgery for cancer will be done, to be replaced with other methods of treatment. "The late Dr. Ehrlich, working along the line of chemotherapy made the statement that the end of the cancer problem is in sight," the speaker said.

Dr. Kennedy said the main obstacle to surgery was that the cancer was not discovered early enough. When the patient sees the surgeon, usually he has waited until the cancer has spread itself to other parts of the body. He mentioned a case where a woman was brought to him for operation. Although she was in but little discomfort, he found the cancer progressed to an inoperable stage, and could not operate. She lived but two months.

CHILDREN SING RILEY'S PRAISES

Seymour Youth Join with the City, State and Nation in Paying Homage to Their Poet.

RILEY PROGRAMS AT SCHOOLS

Students From First Grade Up to High School Recite the Old Favorites on Author's Birthday.

Seymour today joined with Indianapolis, Indiana, and the nation in paying tribute to James Whitcomb Riley, Indiana's Poet Laureate. While there was no formal or public celebration, with the exception of the exercises in the schools of the city, the name of the distinguished Hoosier was on almost every tongue today, and almost every one found himself humming again the Riley books on his library shelves, and going over once more the well known and loved verses which have come from the pen of this genius of verse.

In all the city schools the morning exercises were given over to Riley verse, Riley songs and talks on the Hoosier poet. All the old favorites, including "The Raggedy Man," "The Old Swimmin' Hole," "Out to Old Aunt Mary's" and the many others that have become almost universally known to Indiana school children, were recited, and the little tots delighted in reading the lines which so wonderfully portray the beauty and charm of childhood,—the quaint, whimsical phrases that seem as though they are the natural expressions of the childhood lips that speak them, so true to child life and nature they are.

In the high school this morning, there were several readings of Riley selections, talks on Riley, his life and his works, and selections by the high school orchestra. Prof. J. A. Linke, formerly superintendent of the local schools, now connected with the extension department of Purdue University, was present and gave an interesting and much enjoyed address on Riley.

Doubtless, no similar tribute was ever accorded a poet or other distinguished citizen by the school children of Seymour, and of Indiana, as was today accorded this sweet singer of homely, homespun Hoosier verse. Riley is pre-eminently the children's poet, and they love to honor him. His birthday will be observed each year in the Seymour schools, as it has to some degree, been observed in the past.

Fiftieth Indiana Regiment In Camp Fifty Years Ago

Fifty-four years ago today the Fiftieth Regiment of Indiana Volunteers went into camp where the Shields high school building is now located. It was on October 8, 1861, that the camp was established by that regiment of young men who were soon to march to the front and take up arms for the Union in the greatest Civil War the world has ever known.

In the Fiftieth there were a number of men who enlisted from this county and quite a few from Seymour. Of the number of local soldiers there remain, Jacob Hopple, James Honan, Elisha Ruddick, Fred Miller, William Matlock and Benjamin Carter, all of this city.

Fred Miller, who lives on East Second street, says that he recalls that while the soldiers were in camp on the present school grounds they were visited by the late Captain Meedy W. Shields, the founder of this city and in whose memory the Farmers' Club was erected, the late Tom Ewing and B. F. Price, who now lives at the corner of Chestnut and Fourth streets.

After this camp was established the soldiers were sent to the front and most of the regiment spent three years in active service. Some of them re-enlisted at the expiration of their term of enlistment and were mustered out after peace had been declared.

LARGER CHURCH IS BEING PLANNED

First Baptist Church Considers Means For Enlarging Present Plant to Care for Growing Needs.

ARCHITECT HERE WEDNESDAY

Specialist in Church Building Spends Day Studying Conditions and Making Suggestions.

Harry W. Jones, of Minneapolis, specialist in church architecture, was in Seymour Wednesday looking over the plan of the First Baptist church to advise the best plan for remodeling and enlarging the building, so that it will accommodate the growing needs of the church and Sunday School work. After going over the situation carefully all morning, Mr. Jones met the building committee in the afternoon and the church at its prayer meeting service last evening. He suggested plans which will provide amply for the needs of the Sunday School and social side of the church work, besides making a seating capacity of about 1500 available for special occasions.

The plan which he suggested would provide building a one story and basement addition on the west, north and east sides of the present Sunday School room with a walk and entrance along the west side of the church up to the Beginners and Primary departments, and down to the basement. These two departments of the Sunday School will have the same location as at present but greatly increased room and individual class rooms. The Junior and Intermediate departments will be provided for along the north side of the new addition. Each department arranged so that their room can be closed for separate exercises when desired and opened for the general exercises of the Sunday School when these are being held.

In a basement which would be built under the entire new part of the church, there would be ample provision for kitchen and serving rooms, dining room, gymnasium, boys' club room, girls' club room, with these rooms available also for the use of adult Sunday School classes.

INSPECTION MADE OF FIRE HAZARDS

Representatives of State Fire Marshal's Office on Second Visit to Seymour.

54 ORDERS GIVEN IN JULY

Inspectors Find That Practically All of the Instructions Have Been Carried Out.

John Miner, Jr., deputy state fire marshal, and Ralph Richman, secretary at the state fire marshal's office, were here today making inspections to see if the orders which they gave in July had been carried out. On their inspection trip here during the summer the inspectors issued fifty-four orders, including the razing of several buildings, removal of gasoline tanks, repair of electric wiring and the erection of safeguards about fire hazards.

On their return here today the inspectors found that most of their orders had been complied with, although a few of the property owners had neglected to carry out the instructions altogether and several others had not complied with them to the entire satisfaction of the fire marshal's representatives. It was stated that the orders would be given again and the property owners would be allowed another opportunity to comply with them but in case of a second failure prosecutions would follow.

A thorough inspection of the city was made by the men in July and all fifty-four orders were given. The inspectors ordered that several buildings be torn down or completely remodeled and that repairs be made on others. The orders that required buildings to be removed have been followed, it is stated. Most of the inspections today were of property which was affected by the first orders. However, several buildings in the business district and in the fire district of the city were inspected.

Special attention was given by the inspectors to the location of gasoline tanks and the manner in which the explosive was kept. During the last year a number of fires have resulted from the careless

HOOSIERDOM BOWS TO INDIANA POET

Indianapolis was Gathering Place for Thousands of Riley's Admirers.

BUSY DAY PLANNED FOR HIM

Favorite Poems of the Writers were Read in Schools Throughout the State.

By United Press. Indianapolis, Ind., October 7.—Lockerbie street was the first spot in the whole, wide world today to know that James Whitcomb Riley's birthday had arrived. At 12:01 a. m. the little street echoed with the strains of "Love's Old Sweet Song," played by the brass quartet of the Indianapolis Orchestra.

Riley's dreams must have been enfolded with the melody at first for the Hoosier poet did not awaken. When the fact that he was being serenaded dawned upon him he appeared at the window. Riley wanted the little party to wait until he passed the cigars. "No, you go back to bed," they said, and left the little lane in quiet once more.

Lockerbie street is a little rustic village highway, with rambling old trees and battered brick walks lining its dusty ribbon of road. Riley never wanted it improved. He had to write a poem of just how he felt about it to keep the councilmen from fixing it all up. His other protests went unheeded, but the poem saved the day; and this instant, though the modern city sweeps in macadam lines and skyscrapered visage out in all directions from it, Lockerbie street is still, and doubtless will remain—just Lockerbie street.

Not far over the hills from the city lies the Little Town o' Tail Holts; and a few miles further on is The Old Swimmin' Hole. On country roads down through the state you might, if you searched right well, find cross-roads' signs, merchants' legends daubed on rough boards, relics of those long-gone days when Jimmy Riley rambled over the hills and far away.

Today the world bows low to James Whitcomb Riley, "The Hoosier Poet," and a genial smile such as no one in the world but Riley ever could concoct, wreathes his great big, boyish old face—and well, it just all seems mighty good.

Children in every township of ninety-two counties recited Riley poems and heard stories of the man whose fame has overtaken him while he yet lives.

Indianapolis was the gathering place of thousands of Riley's admirers. Notable men of letters came far from all directions to honor nature's poet.

A busy day was outlined for Riley. Some doubt was expressed that he could follow the program without severely taxing his strength, which has broken in recent years. This morning Riley visited schools here where the children had been drilled in many pretty honors to him. Riley made no secret of the fact that he treasured the tribute paid him by the children.

Favorite Riley poems were for the

AUSTRO-GERMAN DRIVE HAS BEGUN

Large Forces of Troops Cross Northwestern Frontier Into Serbian Territory.

NO WORD COMES FROM SOFIA

Expected, However, That Bulgarian Troops Will be in Action Within in Few Hours.

By United Press. London, October 7.—The long expected Austro-German drive through the Balkans to Constantinople has begun.

Austro-German troops in large forces have crossed the Danube, Save and Drina, the three rivers forming Serbia's northwestern frontier. This afternoon's official Berlin statement claims the crossings were effected at several points and the Austro-Germans have obtained a firm footing on Serbian soil.

No word has come from Sofia this afternoon but it is believed possible that Bulgarian troops have already crossed the eastern frontier of Serbia, striking for the Nish-Salonika railroad. The Greek minister to Sofia reported only two days ago that Bulgaria would invade Serbia when the Austro-German drive began.

No formal declaration of war has come from Sofia, but dispatches from there this afternoon declared Bulgaria expected to be at war within a few hours.

Coincident with the beginning of the Austro-German offensive in the Balkans, the allies have renewed their onslaught in the west with the greatest fury.

The German war office this afternoon admitted that the rush of French infantry drove the Germans from the important Tature Heights in the Champagne region but declared that other successes were only temporary. Paris reports the repulse of heavy counter-attacks against the newly won ground with the Germans suffering enormous losses.

Contraband of War.

By United Press. Athens, October 7.—The allies have served notice on Greece that all merchandise shipments consigned to Greek ports through Bulgaria will be treated as contraband of war and will be confiscated.

Big Loan Ratified.

By United Press. Paris, October 7.—The French chamber of deputies by unanimous vote, ratified the Anglo-French loan, negotiated in the United States.

This is the Stove Polish YOU Should Use

IT'S different from others because more care is taken in the making and the materials used are of higher grade.

Black Silk Stove Polish

Makes a brilliant, silky polish that does not rub off or dust off, and the shine lasts four times as long as ordinary stove polish. Used on sample stoves and sold by hardware and grocery dealers.

All we ask is a trial. Use it on your cook stove, your parlor stove or your gas range. If you don't find it the best stove polish you ever used, your dealer is authorized to refund your money. Insist on Black Silk Stove Polish. Made in liquid or paste—one quality.

RUSSIA BREAKS WITH BULGARIA

Hostilities May Follow Rejection of Demands.

BULGARIA SENDS ULTIMATUM

Demands That Serbia Adjust Macedonian Controversy Within Twenty-Four Hours—More French Troops Are Landed at Salonika.

London, Oct. 7.—The demands made in the Russian ultimatum has been rejected by Bulgaria, who in turn has sent an ultimatum to Serbia demanding that an adjustment of the Macedonian controversy, satisfactory to Bulgaria, be made within twenty-four hours.

The information comes in a dispatch to the Serbian Archimandrite Michael at Moscow. King Constantine, of Greece, has accepted the resignation of Premier Venizelos and Athens reports that more French troops have been landed at Salonika.

Petrograd considers an open breach with Bulgaria inevitable, but so far no military action is contemplated against the Balkan state unless Bulgaria attacks Serbia or takes other measures clearly inimical to the entente.

A wireless dispatch from Berlin says that Bulgaria delivered her answer to the Russian ultimatum. The dispatch does not give the contents of the reply, but adds that the Bulgarian consul at Petrograd, M. Kamazjof, left the Russian capital by way of Finland.

No word has yet been received here of the withdrawal of the Russian minister at Sofia, or of the Bulgarian minister at Petrograd. The understanding in Petrograd is that instructions have been received by the French and British ministers at Sofia to leave the capital with the Russian minister, should he be recalled.

The confused situation in the Balkans is not cleared to any extent by the conflicting dispatches which have been received here. The situation in Greece, where King Constantine has forced the resignation of a premier, who, apparently had the support of the chamber of deputies in his attitude, remains obscure.

Athens dispatches say that it is generally believed that King Constantine will attempt the formation of a coalition cabinet, probably headed by D. G. Phallis, the aged ex-premier. If parliament refuses to accept the coalition cabinet, it is expected the king will dissolve parliament.

The Petrograd correspondent of the Morning Post says that M. Savinski, the Russian minister at Sofia, has just undergone an operation for appendicitis and that it will be some time before he will be able to travel. He had been expected to leave Sofia with his staff, the correspondent says, adding that the Greek minister at Sofia has been instructed to remain until some overt action is taken against Serbia.

The German and Austrian officers who have been loaned to Bulgaria, and who have taken the principal commands in the Bulgarian army, number 3,000, according to the Matin correspondent at Athens. The Daily News correspondent gives the same figures and adds that Bulgaria mobilization plan proved more complete than had been expected.

Athens says that the Turkish forces have arrived in Bulgaria and are moving toward Varna, on the Black sea, to assist in preventing a landing of Russians at that port. The dispatch adds that Bulgaria has asked Turkey for more troops.

The position which will be taken by Roumania in the Balkan tangle still is unknown and no word from Bucharest throws any light on the question.

HOPE TO WIN NEW JERSEY

Suffragists Declare Wilson's Position Means Victory Is Clinched.

New York, Oct. 7.—President Wilson's declaration that he intends to vote for the woman suffrage amendment in New Jersey on October 19, caused great joy among those who are bearing the burden of the suffrage campaign and a corresponding depression in the spirits of the antis.

Suffrage workers say the pendulum of the campaign has swung far toward suffrage in the last ten days and they are confident that the president's stand means that the victory is clinched.

Mrs. Everett Colby, wife of Ex-state Senator Everett Colby, who is chairman of the co-operative committee of woman's suffrage organizations in New Jersey, said: "There is a tremendous wave in favor of woman suffrage throughout the state and the president's coming out for suffrage will, I believe, settle the issue in our favor decisively. Mr. Wilson knows New Jersey and New Jersey's needs right through."

Indiana Man Slated.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The federal trade commission is about to announce the appointment of an Indiana man as its secretary. The general belief, based upon much circumstantial information, is that L. L. Bracken, Municipal attorney, will get the place. The salary is $5,000 a year.

WILL NOW DEFER ARABIC CASE

U. S. In No Haste to Conclude Negotiations.

BERLIN READY TO PROCEED

Believed the Government Is Inclined to Wait Until the Whole Submarine Controversy Is Disposed of Before Proceeding With the Case.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Secretary Lansing and Ambassador Bernstorff have made no arrangements for further negotiations to settle the details of the Arabic and other cases resulting from the German submarine operations.

Count von Bernstorff has left Washington for the summer embassy at Cedarhurst, and the date of his return is indefinite. It is probable that he will not return until the embassy is re-established in Washington. The resumption of negotiations, depends, however, more on this government than on the ambassador, as he stated in his note that he was authorized to begin negotiations for the fixing of an indemnity to be paid relatives of the victims of the Arabic at the convenience of Mr. Lansing.

It is the impression at present in Washington that there will be no haste about proceeding with these negotiations, but rather that they will be deferred until the submarine controversy has ceased to be an important object of attention.

This question is expected to be the first one taken up. The United States government maintained that it could not discuss any of the questions relating to the submarine controversy until the Arabic case was disposed of, consequently it is the assumption here that that case will be completely settled before there is any attempt made to adjust other details.

It is expected here that next in order will be the consideration of the Lusitania case.

This, it is believed, promises more serious difficulties than any remaining phase of the submarine issue. Informally, members of the administration have been led to believe that it is simply impossible for the German government to disavow the Lusitania case, as was demanded by President Wilson. It has been represented, on behalf of Germany, that the Berlin government has said so much in justification of the torpedoing of the Lusitania that it can not even consider retracting this.

The point has been raised here informally as to whether the United States has emerged from the controversy without the loss of a part that it has contended for. It is pointed out that the Germans have pledged themselves not to attack passenger vessels without regard to the safety of those on board; that experience has shown that their "regard for safety" consists in placing passengers and crews in small boats in the open; whereas President Wilson, in one of the early Lusitania notes, expressed the opinion that it was open to question whether a small boat in the open sea could be regarded as a place of safety. Consequently, it is alleged, that by accepting the German pledges, the United States has tacitly admitted that a small boat in the open sea is a place of safety.

In reply to this argument, it is pointed out that in the first place, the United States has not yet subscribed to anything that Germany has communicated to the extent of accepting her declarations as equivalent to definitions of the laws; that it has merely accepted such pledges as expressions of an intent to obey the law as understood by the United States.

RULES NO ELECTION LAW

No Provision For Small Towns, Says State Legal Department.

Indianapolis, Oct. 7.—That the Indiana election law, as it applies to towns of 5,000 and under, is invalid and that the present town officials will hold office until the legislature amends the law, will be the opinion of the attorney general's department. The ruling has been made and it is expected that Attorney General Milburn will sign it.

The legislature of 1911 amended the law and left out all provision for the calling of an election in towns of 5,000 and under.

first time interpreted in dancing and music. At the Murat theatre "An Afternoon With Riley" was produced quite ambitiously. "Little Orphan Annie," "The Circus Day Parade" and other favorites were interpreted by young women of the social set.

The banquet at the Claypool this evening in Riley's honor will be representative. Four hundred invitations were sent out.

The list of speakers for tonight includes William Allen White, of Emporia, Kans., who will tell of "The Day We Celebrate;" John H. Finley, commissioner of education of the state of New York; George Ade; Young E. Allison, of Louisville; Albert J. Beveridge; Senator John W. Kern; Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall; Ellery Sedgwick, editor of Atlantic Monthly; and Col. George Harvey. Charles Warren Fairbanks will be toastmaster.

Riley had been hoping for lots of sunlight and high temperature today. This, he said, has been a most outrageous summer. "I haven't been able to get up a perspiration but twice," but Riley dislikes cold weather. He spends his winters in Florida. He is not writing now either, for the hand that served him so well so long is "mullish."

"And poems can't be dictated you know."

However, he did write a new poem for today, and will read it tonight.

Byford E. Long, Senator Shively's secretary, and Mrs. Long, have as their guest, Mrs. J. M. Hindereder of Medora, Indiana.—Washington, D. C., note in Indianapolis Star.

Corn Limpers! Use "Gets-It" and Smile!

Corns Come Right Off, Clean and Quick! You Needn't Limp, or Fuss With Your Corns Any More!

What's the use of spoiling a good time for yourself by limping around with fierce corns? It's one of the easiest things in the world, now, to get rid of them. "Gets-It" does it the new way. That's why "Gets-It" has become the corn remedy of America, the biggest selling corn remedy in the world, preferred by millions. Do you remember that too-eating salve you tried, that sticky tape, that too-bundling bandage, the gouging you've done with knives, razors and scissors? Well now, forget them all. No more fussing, no more pain. Whenever you use simple, easy "Gets-It," the corn is doomed, sure. So is every callus, wart or bunion. Never cut corns or calluses, it makes them grow that much faster and increases the danger of blood poison. No cutting is necessary by using "Gets-It." Use it tonight and end your corny existence.

"Those Corns Come Right Off, Clean As a Whistle, by Using 'Gets-It'!"

"Gets-It" is sold by all druggists, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

"SEED CORN WEEK" BEING ARRANGED

Eight Meetings to be Held in Various Parts of County During Week of October 11.

COUNTY AGENT IN CHARGE

Prominent Corn Growers Advise Selection of Early Maturing Ears for Seed.

According to the plans being laid by County Agent Cobb, the week of Oct. 11, will be generally observed throughout Jackson County as "Seed Corn Week." A series of eight meetings is being arranged to precede the observance of "Seed Corn Day," on Friday, October 15. Mr. Cobb has been advised by T. A. Coleman Assistant State Leader of County Agent Work, that Governor Ralston will issue a proclamation naming October 15 as "Seed Corn Day" in Indiana. On this day the co-operation of business men and officials all over the state will be asked to stimulate an interest in the early gathering of seed corn.

Prominent corn growers from all over the state have advised the special early selection of the early maturing ears for seed this year, as the unusual cold wet season has greatly retarded the growth of the general corn crop, and it is predicted that corn harvested after the killing frosts will not be in good condition for seed.

Many Jackson County farmers have been aware of this condition and are gathering seed corn from the standing stalks, and in many cases the county agent has been called to assist in the selection.

It has long been the ambition of County Agent Cobb to organize the corn growers of the county, and stimulate their interest in the growing of a uniform type of corn so that they can enter into competition with growers in other counties and obtain a higher price for seed corn. In connection with the meetings to be held during Seed Corn Week, Mr. Cobb hopes to establish this type that will be satisfactory to the majority of the corn growers, and to make preliminary plans for the placing of Jackson County Seed Corn on the market.

Representatives for each township have been appointed by Mr. Cobb, and these men have been asked to co-operate in arranging for the meetings, and in checking up the results of Seed Corn Day.

The schedule of meetings is as follows:

Monday a. m., Redding Township—Ernest May, leader.

Monday p. m., Hamilton township—Prof. C. E. Jackson, leader.

Tuesday a. m., Brownstown township—Henry Lucas, leader.

Tuesday p. m., Driftwood township—George Hauer, leader.

Wednesday a. m., Owen and Salt Creek townships—Ezra Scott and Dolph Bowers, leaders.

Wednesday p. m., Carr township—Harry B. Henderson, leader.

Thursday a. m., Jackson and Vernon townships—O. E. Carter and O. M. Foster, leaders.

Thursday p. m., Washington and Grassy Fork townships—Ed. Osterman and A. H. Mitschke, leaders.

Friday—Seed Corn Selection Day. Field meetings will be arranged in each township except where the schedule indicates that two townships meet together. A short discussion of the type of corn to select will be held under the direction of the County Agent, and the men will be allowed to go into the field and select a number of ears of corn. A further discussion of the corn selected will be held and an agreement reached as to the best ear selected. School children will be asked to attend wherever it is convenient for the teachers to dismiss the class. The effect of barren stalks and empty hills on the yield will also be demonstrated. Each man present at the field meeting will be asked to co-operate in making a success of Seed Corn Selection Day, and will be asked to report to his township leader the number of bushels of seed corn gathered on that day. The places of meeting will be located immediately by the township leaders, and all inquiries as to time and place of meetings should be directed to them or to County Agent A. D. Cobb at Brownstown.

In order to further stimulate the observance of the day, Mr. Cobb is endeavoring to have a merchant or banker in each township offer a small prize for the best ear selected in the township on Friday, October 15, all ears to be sent to the business house offering the prize for display, and a grand prize to be offered for the best ear in the county, this ear to be taken as the type for which the breeders are to select their seed.

The trip to the Federal Serum Plant at Indianapolis which was to have been made by twenty-five farmers under the direction of County Agent Cobb, was postponed indefinitely as the U. S. inspector in charge of the plant, thought it unwise to allow a large body of men to go through the plant at this time as there is new danger from the flu and mouth disease and much cholera is also present throughout the state. The trip will be arranged for later in the fall when a new disinfecting plant will have been erected at the Federal plant.

Three hundred head of hogs have been vaccinated in the county during the last ten days, about two-thirds of which have been affected with the cholera when treated. To date 95 per cent. of the treated hogs have been saved. Farmers to the west of the infected area are taking every precaution to save their hogs and the spread of the disease is somewhat slower than at any time during the previous months.

$100 Reward, $100.

LARGER CHURCH IS BEING PLANNED

high on the lot, so that the basement floor would be very little lower than the sidewalk and with a ten foot ceiling there would be ample light and ventilation.

The plan suggested does not change the present church building except that the present primary room is removed to make room for the larger building. The present vestibule of the church will stand as it is and an additional covered entrance would be made just north of it. From this covered entrance the present steps will lead up to the present vestibule toward the south, while on the north steps will lead up to the new addition for the Intermediate department and down to the basement.

The outside of the addition would correspond with the present style of the church's architecture. A parapet wall would be built about the addition, so that the light from the upper parts of the windows in the present building would come into the present Sunday School room just as it now does. The tower could be refinished by removing the steeple and giving the tower a parapet finish corresponding with the new addition.

In the main auditorium Mr. Jones suggests changing the baptistry to one side with an elevated pool and a rear entrance so that the candidate and minister would not be in view until they were entirely within the water. Suggestions were also made as to rearranging the choir seating.

The committee arranged with the architect to give the matter further study and prepare preliminary drawings indicating more exactly the details of the improvements which he suggests.

There was a good attendance at the prayer meeting service last night and numerous questions were asked in the conference which followed concerning the proposed building. The interest in the proposition was manifest as the church appreciates the need of more room to adequately care for its growing work. Steps are already being taken toward securing money for the purpose of doing the work as soon as sufficient funds are available to warrant beginning.

SEYMOUR DRUGGIST PLEASES CUSTOMERS

C. E. Loertz reports customers greatly pleased with the QUICK action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika. Indiana Democracy.

Early Indiana Democracy was rock-bed, founded upon Jeffersonian and Jacksonian principles. It held that the Federal government was strictly limited in its powers and that internal improvements by National aid were unconstitutional. It gradually assumed a conservative position on the tariff question; emphasized the power of the states, and the rights of the individual. After the slavery issue dominated it, the Democracy espoused territorial expansion. Indiana was under Democratic rule continuously for nearly a fifth of a century—1843-1861—preceding the Civil War.

STATE TO REST IN BELL CASE

Prosecution Will Hear Only a Few More Witnesses.

Indianapolis, Oct. 7.—The prosecution in the trial of Mayor Bell practically concluded the introduction of its testimony after hearing voters relate incidents that occurred in the Fourth precinct of the Sixth ward, sometimes called "the Y. M. C. A. precinct," on election day.

Prosecutor Rucker told Judge Elchorn, special judge in the election cases, after the adjournment of court, that the state probably will call two or three more witnesses then rest its case.

The state has examined about 675 witnesses and has been more than three weeks introducing its testimony. Counsel for the defense has estimated that its testimony may be introduced in a week or ten days, and if this proves possible the trial should be concluded in about two weeks.

Noted Americans Abroad Send Messages to Post.

Indianapolis, Oct. 7.—The celebration of the birthday anniversary of James Whitcomb Riley, which originally was intended as a state-wide affair and subsequently became national in its scope and importance, attained international significance when cable messages of congratulation came to Indianapolis from across the seas.

Ambassador Page at London, Brand Whitlock, the American minister to Belgium, and Henry VanDyke, the American minister to the Netherlands, sent messages of congratulation to Mr. Riley.

In addition to honoring the great Hoosier poet at the dinner this evening, another entertainment in his honor will be given at the Murat theatre.

OUR POET.

James Whitcomb Riley's place in the hearts of the people is assured. The years will but add to the luster of his name. How fitting and how fine a thing it is that recognition should come now, while he is capable of enjoying and appreciating it.

The charm of Riley's verse is in its simplicity. There is no striving after effect, no attempt at poetical or rhetorical flights, but instead the simple, unadorned, unpretentious language of the Hoosier folk of whom he has always been proud to consider himself one.

His verse has been dedicated largely to childhood, and his pictures of the joys and sorrows, the trials and tribulations of the little folk will stand as classics for all time. Riley's love for the children has been abundantly reciprocated by the youngsters, who are his most ardent and enthusiastic admirers.

Today, on his sixty-sixth birthday, his name is on the tongue of every Indian, and all Hoosierdom joins in a song of tribute to her beloved poet.

May he live to see many more such celebrations.

rapidly on the increase. Why? Tuberculosis has been reduced 25 per cent since 1900, by proper living, and is it not possible that the same can be done in cancer? Not a word is taught in looking after the general welfare of the patient. If the case is past the stage of employing surgery, we are told to give anodynes to relieve pain; use antiseptic solutions to control the odor (which it never does), and the patient is compelled to suffer agony until the end.

"During 1913, over 75,000 persons died from cancer. This figure is alarming. On the other hand, consider how many people are afflicted with cancer, and who will eke out a wretched existence for years. The death rate of tuberculosis is decreasing, in great measure due to the vast sums raised by the Red Cross Society, and other organizations, while the death rate from cancer increases. Since 1880, death rate from cancer shown in 17 states included in the United States registration area shows an increase of 104 per cent. The average age of death from malignant disease is 59 years, and deaths from cancer amount to 8.6 per cent, of the mortality from all causes at the age of 45 and over. The cause of cancer is unknown, some believing it due to germ origin, while others believe there is special form of tissue cells which become lawless, taking on a riotous growth due to chemical, or mechanical irritation."

Dr. Kennedy cited different authorities who believe that the person having cancer must have special attention given to building up of resistance, and promoting elimination from the body. Every circumstance which tends to impoverish general health, tends to increase the growth of the cancer.

"Our best authorities claim that ninety per cent. of all benign tumors sooner or later become malignant. The X-ray, at first enthusiastically heralded as a sure cure for cancer, was condemned as worthless, and has now reached its proper place. There is no question but it is of great benefit.

"Radium obtains results in cancer which cannot be obtained with any other remedy, but there is yet a diversity of opinion as to the amount to be used in a given case, and length of time for the application. It is especially valuable in skin cancer."

Mentioning Autolysin, Dr. Kennedy quoted from Dr. Beebe's article appearing in the New York Medical Journal, May 15th, 1915. He quoted: "The treatment of patients suffering from inoperable cancer is one of the most difficult problems in medicine today. Too often the treatment becomes merely the administration of gradually increasing doses of morphine, a plan which often defeats its own purpose. A variety of therapeutic agents have been introduced and widely used during recent years. Each new idea is greeted with hope and skepticism by the medical world. Autolysin appears to produce a decided effect upon tumor tissues, but before it is entitled to a place in therapeutics of this disease, we must know more of its limitations.

"At times it causes wide destruction of tumor tissues, and probably to some extent of normal tissues as well. * * * As this is a somewhat complex mixture, we need to know which of the agents are most effective and active. Accurate knowledge of the pharmacological action of some of the agents in this remedy, applied in this manner, is not now available. Possibly an entirely different method of preparation and administration of the agent now in use will prove more effective. As changes in its composition are made, experiments are made on animals to determine any possible harmful effect before using it upon human subjects. From present information we have no right to conclude that more than temporary relief is afforded. We must find out to what degree this remedy acts locally, and to what degree constitutionally, if any. An agent, however, which seems to possess qualities which this one does, needs most careful investigation in several directions before reliance is placed upon it as a therapeutic agent."

Dr. Kennedy closed his paper with the exhibiting of some cancer cases where he had used Autolysin. Two cases came to him so late that death ensued before anything could be determined. Other cases showed immediate relief following the injection of the treatment. Autolysin is given hypodermically, anywhere in the body. It comes to the doctor in sealed ampoules, 12 in the box, but there is no dosage as yet determined. Some cases have had a hundred or more injections.

Considerable interest was shown by the members of the local medical society, as evidenced by the generous discussion which followed.

Autolysin was invented by Dr. Alexander Horowitz, an Austrian chemist, who has spent fifteen years in developing the treatment. It is composed of chlorophyll and plant proteins. Dr. Silas P. Beebe, of New York, who is connected with experimental medicine in Cornell, is supervising the experimental work being done with it. Some prominent men have advocated its use, but the pub-lie should await proof and developments, and not jump at conclusions. If Autolysin proves itself of sufficient class to rank with the Roentgen ray and radium, it will be a great discovery. While this is a time of scientific wonders, and all sciences are making great strides, we must not now believe "the" cure for cancer has arrived. Hundreds of cases must produce results, and the remedy undergo changes and improvements, before it will be given a secure place in therapeutics. Until then we shall wait—and hope.

Dr. M. F. Gerrish, who has been quite ill for several days attended the meeting, it being the first time he has left his home since he was taken sick. The members of the Society gave him a cordial greeting. Other local physicians present were: Drs. G. G. Graessle, J. M. Shields, W. M. Casey, C. E. Gillespie, J. H. Carter, E. G. Kyte, E. D. Wright, J. K. Ritter, L. B. Hill, secretary of the Society, A. G. Osterman and G. H. Kamman. Henry Osterman was also present.

Out-of-town members and visitors were: Drs. C. A. Hunter, of Reddington; D. J. Cummings, Sr., of Medora; D. J. Cummings, Jr., of Brownstown; Neal Matlock, of Medora; A. May, of Crothersville; F. M. Smith, of Mason county, Ky.; J. M. Jenkins, of Cortland; N. G. Harrod, of Tampico; P. A. Kendall, of Crothersville. Others came to the meeting during the afternoon.

LOCAL VETERANS ATTEND ANNUAL REUNION AT FRANKLIN

Hundreds of Old Soldiers Are Enjoying The Association of Comrades in All-day Reunion Today.

About twenty members of the local post of the G. A. R. went to Franklin this morning to attend the annual reunion of the old soldiers of the Fourth district, which is being held today. Between 250 and 400 veterans were expected to be present and elaborate preparations had been made to assure the visitors a good time. The court house and business houses were decorated in the national colors and the parade this morning was witnessed by a large crowd who cheered the "Boys in Blue" as they marched through the streets.

The meetings were held in the opera house and were open to the public. Besides the general reunion, there were to be several different regimental reunions, and a very busy day had been mapped out for the soldiers.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.

J. Max Steinkamp, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Steinkamp, celebrated his sixth birthday anniversary today, the members of his class at the Laurel Street school assisted him in celebrating the event. Mrs. Steinkamp sent a quantity of doughnuts and other good things to eat to the class which were thoroughly enjoyed by the pupils. Max received the congratulations of his little friends who welcomed the novel celebration.

THE HEART OF INDIANA

By Harriet Montgomery.

(The following article was written by Miss Montgomery, of this city, while a student at Wilson College at Chambersburg, Pa., and was awarded first prize in a literary contest among the students. It was afterwards published in the Phœtrea, the official publication of the college.)

Strickland Gillilan once asked an Indianapolis man where Mr. Riley lived. All unconscious of the deeper truth of his words, the man replied "He lives in the heart of Indianapolis." In a larger sense this is true. James Whitcomb Riley does live in the heart of Indianapolis and just as Indianapolis is in the heart of Indiana just so truly does he live in the hearts of all true Indians. Only recently I was asked, "Have you read any of Riley's works?" The only answer I could possibly make was, "Have I read any of his works? I was brought up on them." Indeed that is the answer that every Hoosier must make, for from earliest childhood he knows Riley's poems. When an Indiana boy or girl is asked to "speak a piece" on any occasion, he turns inevitably to Riley to make his selection. The reason for this is because Riley is our poet and we love him. Every year on his birthday his poems are recited in our schools and flags are raised in his honor. Occasionally too, he leaves his home on Lockerie street in Indianapolis and goes out to Greenfield, his birthplace. There the people flock to meet him, the older people to see the "Jim" whom they used to know and whom they do not find at all changed, the children to gaze wonderingly at the man whose verses they already love. These little ones will not soon forget the cheery smile with which he receives the flowers they press upon him.

It was in this quiet little town of Greenfield, just outside of Indianapolis that Riley spent his own childhood.

RILEY AS HE IS TODAY.

hood. Here he used often to go to court with his father who was a lawyer, and in that crowded room he stood and listened to the political and personal discussions of the rough, wholesome country men who frequented it. In this way he learned to know thoroughly their speech and manner which he loves to use in his poems. He was a slender lad with corn silk hair and wide blue eyes. He was shy and timid and very sensitive. He himself tells one source of his sensitiveness.

"I use to have a terrible time with freckles," he says, "it seemed to me then and it does now I had more than any other boy who ever lived. The fellows and the girls used to joke about them and what they said hurt. Yes, it did. You can't know how much it hurt to have folks make fun of such a fearful infirmity unless you've been afflicted."

He was not strong physically and dreaded the rougher sports, yet he was full of the spirit of play, a spirit which he never lost and which finds its expression in his poem "The Old Swimmin' Hole," from which I quote a stanza:

"Oh! the old swimmin' hole! In the long lazy days
When the humdrum of school made so many runaways,
How pleasant was the journey down the old dusty lane,
Where the tracks of our bare feet were all printed so plain.
You could see by the dent of the heel and the sole
They was lots o' fun on hands at the old swimmin' hole.
But the lost joys is past! Let's your tears in sorrow roll
Like the rain that used to dapple up the old swimmin' hole."

We find the same spirit of youth in "Fool Youngsters" from which I cannot resist quoting the following lines:

"Me and Bert and Minnie Belle
Knows a joke and we won't tell!
No we don't—cause we don't know
Why we got to laughin' so,
But we got to laughin' so,
We jist kep' a laughin'."

"Wind uz blowin' in the tree—
And was only ist us three
Playin' there; an' ever one
Ketched each other, like we done,
Squintin' up there at the sun,
Like we wuz a laughin'."

"Nothin' funny anyway;
But I laughed and so did they—
An' we all three laughed, an' nen
Squint our eyes an' laugh again;
Ner we didn't ist p'ten—
We wuz shore-nough laughin'."

No there isn't anything very deep about it, any hidden meaning, but you like it, don't you? Who can resist the inimitable child spirit of it? He has done what few accomplish, he has followed his own advice:

"Tell of the things just like they wuz
They don't need no excuse!
Don't tetch them up as the poet does!
Till they're all too fine for use!"

It is the employment of this method which has resulted in the attainment of the purpose which he once confided to a friend. His ambition in life, he said, was to give joy to little children. If he could only do that, he believed he would not have lived in vain. To show them that he has not lived in vain, I have only to mention "Little Orphant Annie," "The Raggedy Man," "When the World Bust Through" and "Elizabeth Ann." Surely you have laughed over the pranks of "Jimmy Brown," the "Worst Boy in Town," cried over "The Happy Little Cripple" or felt an every shiver at the "Witch Tales" at Annie Tells About" that end always with the refrain "And the goblins 'll get you if you don't watch out."

If you did not know these poems as children, read them, and you will feel those thrills even now, because Riley's appeal is so universal and so homely and so true to reality. Kipling recognized this. In 1890 Kipling sent him a copy of his "Rhymes of Childhood" and in recognition of this courtesy Kipling wrote to Riley:

"Your trail runs to the westward
And mine to my own place;
There is water between our lodges
And I have not seen your face.

"But since I have read your verses
This easy to guess the rest—
Because in the hearts of children
There is neither east nor west.

"Your trail runs to the westward,
And mine to my own place;
There is water between our lodges,
And you cannot see my face.

"And that is well—for crying
Should neither be written nor seen,
But if I call you 'Smoke-in-the-Eyes,'
I know you will know what I mean."

In response to this tribute, Riley composed a poem to Kipling. These poems were the basis of an acquaintanceship between the two poets. Riley was also a friend of Longfellow, to whom early in his literary career he sent the manuscript of some of his poems for criticism. Longfellow advised him to go on writing and we are glad he did.

Although we associate the name of Riley most naturally with his poetry for children and his verse in dialect, we should not forget that his work is broader in its range. Although in much of this his tone is superficial and there seems a striving after effect that never is found in his more familiar field, we yet discover many bits that are charmingly spontaneous in expression and lyric in feeling, many passages that assure one that Riley is worthy of the title he covets most for himself, not poet but singer of songs. I have chosen a few lines from "Flying Islands of the Night" which illustrate especially this lyric quality.

"I loved her. Why? I never knew.
Perhaps
Because her face was fair. Perhaps because
Her eyes were blue and wore a weary air.
Perhaps! Perhaps because his limpid face
Was eddied with a restless tide, where-in
The dimples found no place to anchor
And abide. Perhaps because her tresses beat
A froth of gold about her throat and poured
In splendour to her feet that ever seemed Afloat. Perhaps because of that wild way
Her sudden laughter overleap't propriety;
Or—who will say—perhaps the way she wept."

We find again a certain depth of feeling coupled with a wholesome philosophy and a kindly thought in his "Prayer Perfect."

"Dear Lord! Kind Lord!
Gracious Lord! I pray
Thou wilt look on all I love,
Tenderly today.
Weed their hearts of weariness;
Scatter every care
Down a wake of angel wings
Winnowing the air.

"Bring unto the sorrowing
All release from pain;
Let the lips of laughter
Overflow again;
And with all the needy
Oh divide, I pray,
This vast treasure of content
That is mine today!"

So we see that even in his prayers as well as in his verse of very different types, the quality of Riley that stands out most prominently is his sympathy with humanity. It is this human touch most often finding its expression in the presentation of the thought and life of Indiana that make me, as a confessed Hoosier, say of James Whitcomb Riley with Henry Van Dyke:

"This is the reason why we love you
Remember your songs and forget your art.
Other poets may soar above you,
You keep close to the human heart."

History of Catholic Ladies' Aid Society

By Mrs. James P. Honan, President.

At the home of Mrs. Charles Murphy, North Broadway, on the afternoon of April 16, 1914, several of the ladies of St. Ambrose Catholic Church assembled to talk over matters pertaining to the social life of the members of the church, and out of the gathering came the organization of the Catholic Ladies' Aid Society, which from its very beginning, has been most successful.

At this meeting rules and by-laws were adopted and the organization perfected. The first officers were:

President—Mrs. Eliza Leyhan.
Secretary—Mrs. Anna Brown.
Treasurer—Mrs. James Quinn.

The society meets on the first and third Thursdays of the month at the K. of C. hall, corner of Second and Chestnut streets. The members sew, make quilts, comforts, rugs, etc. A committee consisting of three members serve lunch at a nominal price at each meeting. The products of the labor of the members are sold and the money realized goes to the improvement of the church and school property.

Socials are often given, and these events enable the older as well as the new members to become better acquainted for every lady member of the church is recognized as a member of the society.

MARIETTA ROSS TANNER IS A "MISS INDIANA"

The following is taken from the Chicago Daily Tribune, Wednesday, October 5:

The Daughters of Indiana hastened to the rescue of their state yesterday. One of the assurances they wished to get to the public—particularly the Indiana Society of Chicago—at their monthly meeting in the Congress hotel was that the accusation of "race suicide" does not apply to Indiana women—not yet. As proof, they pointed to several eligible little "Miss Indianas."

E. M. Holloway, secretary of the Indiana society, had said he was unable to find a 5-year-old girl to represent the state in the Dixie highway tableau in Grant park Saturday. "Race suicide" among Indians was hinted as a result of the futile search. Among the daughters and granddaughters the scarcest person was a girl from 5 to 7 years, according to Secretary Holloway.

But the Daughters of Indiana quickly answered with little "Miss Indianas." Marietta Ross Tanner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace A. Tanner of 4649 Dover street, was one of them. She is about the most perfect Indian one would wish for. She was born in Indianapolis nearly five years ago, and her father is a native of Milan, Ind., while her mother comes from Seymour in the same state. Besides, her mother is a member of the Indiana society.

Mrs. Tanner was formerly Miss Barbara Laugle, of this city. Accompanying the above article were pictures of Mrs. Tanner and her daughter.

PICKLE RECIPE.

Take two gallons of cucumbers, four quarts of wild cherry leaves, ten quarts of cold water, one cup of salt, three tablespoons of caraway seeds, three tablespoons of white sugar, and one pint of vinegar. Dissolve salt in water for brine. Pack cucumbers whole in layers in jars, sprinkling caraway seed between the cherry leaves between each layer. Cover with brine, let all stand fourteen days in a cool, dry place. Take out the brine and cut the cucumbers into inch pieces. Then pack in glass jars, turning them upside down with cover off to drain off the brine. Make a thick syrup of three pounds of granulated sugar, one pint of vinegar and spices to taste.

SUBSCRIBER.

PERFECTION SALAD.

Half package of gelatin, half cup of cold water, scant half cup of best vinegar, two-thirds cup of sugar, one pint of boiling water, half teaspoon of salt, juice of one lemon, two cups celery (cut fine), one cup of finely shredded cabbage, quarter can (or equal) sweet red pepper or pimientos.

Around the Home

It is very annoying to get a new gown spotted with rain. The next time such a calamity happens to a gown or tailored suit try this remedy:

Wring out of cold water a clean linen or cotton cloth; spread the damaged garment carefully over an ironing board and place the damp cloth on the right side of the material and iron quickly and carefully over the wet cloth, taking care to wring it out of water when a fresh part of the frock has to be ironed. The whole of the garment should be gone over—or the skirt at least, even should it not be all spotted; this treatment will freshen it and will not damage the most delicate color or material if carefully done.

Indeed, the ironing is an excellent way of renewing navy blue or black serge costumes. A few drops of ammonia added to the water in which the cloth is wrung out is a great improvement and helps to bring up the color. The garment must first of all be well shaken and brushed before ironing it. Another and very effective way to revive navy blue serge is to sponge it thoroughly with indigo blue water, afterward ironing it when it has dried a little.

Aluminum ware must never be cleansed with water containing soda or any form of free alkali, or it will turn black. The makers of aluminum utensils say the brownish surface film formed on the inside after they have been used for awhile is a natural and harmless substance which serves as a surface protection and should not be disturbed. Soap and water should be used for cleaning, and a paste of whiting and water occasionally used for polishing aluminum vessels. They can thus be kept bright. They should never be scraped with a knife or anything likely to spoil the surface. Any adhering food surface may be removed without this if well soaked with hot water.

Leaf mold is needed for potted plants, and a good method for supplying the earth with it is to save the withered leaves and make use of them. Whenever a leaf or seed pod is required to be removed from a plant, instead of throwing it away, make it of use. Press these savings well into the soil containing the plant from which they have been removed. Leaves are nature's fertilizers; they absorb the elements from the soil and atmosphere which are essential to the sustenance of their parent's life.

If you have worn your thimble through get the plumber to drop just a little solder inside. The thimble will be just as good as new.

MARGARET MASON'S FASHION LETTER

(Written for the United Press.)

New York, October 7.—What matter if this be a vale of tears if you are all done up in a veil of lace? Who's going to know whether your face is leaking or wearing a smile that won't come off.

When you take the veil, however, be sure and take a smart one. The wide black meshed ones with a deep and intricate lace border are simply stunning and are worn gathered in closely to a tiny black turban like a skull cap and then flare out like a lamp shade or the full skirt of a premier danseuse.

The question of length is a vital proposition with these new bouffant veils. The more elaborate ones fall well down around the wearer's shoulders and bust, while others with but a narrow border flare out piquantly just level with your chin.

Many of the smartest hats are made with the veil already attached. It is as vital an adjunct as a flower or a feather.

Beside the lovely black lace ones there are smart taupe, brown and blue ones in a medium mesh with embroidered edges in conventional designs like the Greek key or the Wall of Troy.

The borders for veils of course offer wonderful opportunities for the display of versatility and originality among designers and already we have fringe and fur playing the role of veil edging while metallic borders of galoon or tinsel are used on veils through the meshes of which threads of silver and gold gleam fitfully.

You are to be kidded a lot about your top coat this fall, for the topmost top coats of them all are made of white kid, if you please. Amazingly startling they are too with linings of brilliant green, scarlet, purple or orange. Others of white cloth vie with the kid effects and linings are more often in serge in these coats than of silk. Grey kid and tan are also shown but naturally the white creations are the newest and most striking of garments.

Leather and kid trimmings are very good for frocks and blouses as well as coats and buttons and bindings of bright colored leathers add up to date touches to many a fall and winter toilette.

You simply can't get away from fur, however, no matter if you go further and strip the animal of his inner skin. Beaver bandings on seal brown satin or chiffon velvet is one of the loveliest combinations of the season and you can't go far wrong if you acquire a gown of either of these two materials beaver banded.

Skunk banding on amethyst satin is charming although skunk is very expensive this year. They are offering as a substitute flying squirrel fur, but the effect is hardly a happy one as the flying squirrel is soft and matted looking and undoubtedly would show to advantage only on a galloping horse or—well say a flying squirrel.

As a matter of fact and good taste an imitation fur banding is worse than none but if you have the price there's really nothing to beat the band this season provided its a real fur band.

WOMEN'S CLUB DAY AT SOIL PRODUCT EXPOSITION

Saturday was Woman's Club Day at the International Soil products Exposition at Denver. An exposition feature is the work of women and children. The presidents of all the federated clubs of the state and the president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, of Texas, were present. Among the exhibits were everything from marvels of culinary art to models for bungalows.

For Removing Finger Marks.

Rub finger marks on doors with a clean piece of flannel dipped in kerosene and they will disappear. Afterward wipe them with a cloth wrung out in hot water to take away the odor of oil. This is a much better plan than using soap and water, as the oil does not destroy the paint. Kerosene will also be found excellent for cleaning varnished doors.

Colors of Waists Change.

The most radical change in the waist styles this season is in the color. The dressy waists are either dark, so as to match the suit, or are in some high color, thus contrasting with the suit. On the other hand, the semi-tailored models continue to be mostly in white and in flesh color, says the Dry Goods Economist. The new season waists of conservative type are in navy, brown, dark green, purple, gray or mulberry. Waists of more striking type are in garnet, light green, rose, royal purple, French blue and other tones which will blend harmoniously with the dark suit colorings.

LUNCHEON.

A charmingly appointed luncheon was given by Miss Lillian Osterman this afternoon at her home, 411 South Chestnut street, in compliment to Miss Faye Everhart, an October bride-elect. The dining room was decorated with hearts and cupid with many dahlias and other autumn flowers. For the center of the table there was a huge bouquet of red roses which carried out the dainty color scheme of red and white. Covers were laid for Miss Everhart, Misses Gertrude Meyer, Elvora Ahlbrand, Margaret Byrne, Esther Doane and Miss Osterman. A course luncheon was served. Miss Everhart was presented with a beautiful linen luncheon set. The marriage of Miss Everhart to Ernest Amick, will occur soon.

APPROACHING WEDDING.

Invitations have been received here for the marriage reception of Miss Marie Louise Moran, of Detroit, Mich., to Mr. Julius Christian Peter, of this city, which will take place Thursday afternoon, October 21, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Moran, 415 Jefferson avenue, Detroit, Michigan. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Peter, of this city, and is the head of a bonding company at Detroit. He is endowed with exceptional business ability and has been very successful. The bride-elect is a member of a well known Detroit family and is prominent in social circles.

BELL TAKES STAND FOR THE DEFENSE

State Rests This Morning in the Election Conspiracy Trial in Marion County.

DENIES FRAUD AT THE POLLS

Witness Asserts that He Did Not Influence Democratic Primary Fraudulently.

By United Press.
Indianapolis, October 7—Mayor Joseph E. Bell took the stand today as the first defense witness in the trial in which he is charged with conspiring with Thomas Taggart, Chief of Police Perrott and 125 others to corrupt the Marion county elections of 1914.

The state rested at 9:30 a. m. after having consumed three weeks by its evidence.

Mayor Bell addressed every answer directly at the jury and the jury was attentive.

Bell denied all knowledge of fraud at the polls; denied that he had conversed with Bud Gibson (confessed conspirator) at the polls; denied that he had in any way sought to influence the democratic primary fraudulently; asserted he had nothing whatever to do with the selection of primary officials; asserted that he advised no member of the primary board to count more votes for Edward Lyons or any other candidate than he actually got; and denied that he had instructed anyone to violate a single election statute.

The mayor testified that the Saturday before the primaries he called all city hall employees "together and urged them to take part in the primary so that a democratic ticket would be selected that would meet with the favor of all democrats."

He emphatically denied that he directed any policeman to work for or favor any set of candidates. Bell said he pledged his support to certain candidates for nomination, including Edward Lyons for treasurer and Theodore Porteus for sheriff, saying he had personal knowledge of their character and efficiency.

PRESIDENT AND FIANCEE WILL ATTEND HOUSE PARTY

Announced That Wedding Will be Quiet and Will Take Place Early in December.

By United Press.
Washington, October 7—President Wilson will leave tomorrow morning for N. Y. accompanied by his fiancée, Mrs. Norman Galt, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Dr. Cary T. Grayson and Secretary Tumulty to a week-end house party at the home of his friend, Col. House.

It was officially stated at the White House today that the Wilson-Galt wedding will be very quiet one and will be held at the home of Mrs. Galt. It will probably take place early in December.

G. A. Davison, president of the San Diego-California Exposition, is here today to ask the president to attend the exposition and it is possible that the President may go west on his honeymoon trip.

FISH BONE WORKS FROM STOMACH TO SIDE OF BODY

William Buse, 309 West Oak street, underwent an unusual operation at the Schneck Memorial Hospital this morning.

Several weeks ago Mr. Buse suffered from his side and an examination by his physician showed that a small mass had collected just under the flesh. An operation was decided upon. After the incision was made it was discovered that a sharp fish bone, about one and one-half inches long, had worked its way almost to the surface of the flesh. It is supposed that the bone was swallowed while eating fish and had penetrated the wall of the stomach and had lodged just under the flesh. The operation was not serious and Mr. Buse is resting well this afternoon.

"Government of American Cities," by W. B. Munroe. Treats of the framework of government in American cities, the powers and duties of the municipal corporation, the different organs of municipal government and their relation to each other. "A treatise of the highest importance and value." A. L. A. Booklist.

"Greek Athletic Sports and Festivals," by E. N. Gardiner. The place of physical training and of games in education, the place of athletics in our daily life and in our national life, are questions of present importance to us all, and in considering these questions we cannot fail to learn something from the athletic history of a nation which for a time at least succeeded in reconciling the rival claims of body and of mind, and immortalized this result in its art. From the Preface.

"Industrial and Social History of England," E. P. Cheyney.

"The Making of English," by Henry Bradley. Partial contents: Likeness of German and English; What English owes to foreign tongues; Word-making in English; Changes of meaning; Some makers of English.

"Recitations for Assembly and Class-room" with suggested programs; comp. by A. T. L. O'Neill.

"Social Progress in Contemporary Europe," by F. A. Ogg. Reviews the development of significant political, economic and social aspects and activities in Europe and Great Britain since 1789, and analyzes the origin and character of the changes to which they gave rise. A. L. A. Booklist.

Especially interesting to those who are inquiring into the causes of the European war.

"Student's History of the United States, Edward Channing. A. A. Freeman said of this book, "Decidedly the best one volume American history yet published."

"Town Life in the Fifteenth Century," by Mrs. J. R. Green. The men of the New Learning, the men of the Reformation, the men who revealed the New World, were men who had been formed under the influences of the fifteenth century. Page 44.

"Vanishing Roads and Other Essays," by Richard LeGallienne. Partial contents: Woman as a supernatural being; Lack of imagination among millionaires; Passing of Mrs. Grundy; Modern aids to romance; Persecutions of beauty; Snows of yester-year; Psychology of gossip; Passing away of the editor; Old American tow-path; Forbes-Robertson; Imperishable fiction; The Bible and the butterfly.

"THE OLD GOSPEL" SUBJECT OF INSPIRING SERMON

The Rev. Fred R. Davies Spoke Last Night at the "Rally at the Christian Church.

To a very attentive audience, the Rev. Fred R. Davies spoke upon the subject, "The Old Gospel," Wednesday night at the "Great Fall Rally" that is in progress at the Christian church. Many in the audience said it was one of the best sermons they had ever heard. The evangelist has a pleasing personality and a forceful manner of expression.

In part his sermon is as follows: "I want to take on old text and put a new dress on it if I can," the speaker said. "In Romans 1:16 you will find the text, 'I am not ashamed of the gospel, for it is the power of God until salvation to every one that believeth.'"

"It would well be worth if time were spent studying the Apostle Paul's successful life—his efficiency and earnestness. But time denies this. However, a glance at his method of letter writing reveals enough for the present.

"The power of God is the Gospel. God has many powers in the world, but only one power unto salvation—His Gospel.

"Modern scholarship may say that salvation by the blood of Christ is cruel and crude, but the fact persists that we are saved by the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus and the Gospel as Paul terms them.

"This gospel is so plain, so simple that a child may accept the terms, so easy of understanding that he who may read can know. Paul was not ashamed of the gospel. We have no need to be ashamed, and one ashamed of the power, the fruits of earth may be ashamed of the Gospel. The stars shining like silver nails in God's ceiling, the sun, the moon, the forests, all are by the author of the Gospel. To be ashamed of one is to be ashamed of all.

"The church in Seymour has no reason to be ashamed of this gospel. It has lightened cares, brightened dark places, saved souls for God's Kingdom."

The Rev. Mr. Davies will speak tonight on "The Fine Art of Appreciation." The indications are that the meetings will be very successful and that the addresses will be heard by large audiences. Mr. Davies has been engaged in the evangelist work of the Christian church for some time and is recognized as one of the strong ministers of that denomination.

FOUR ARE KILLED IN POWDER MILL EXPLOSION

25,000 Pounds of Explosive Let Go Near Emporium, Pa.—For Shipment to Allies.

By United Press.
Emporium, Pa., October 7.—Four workmen were killed, another was so badly hurt that he is not expected to live, and eight others less seriously injured in an explosion of 25,000 pounds of powder at the Aetna Explosive plant here today. The building was blown to atoms. The powder was to have been sent to the shipping department today to be prepared for shipment to the allies. Officials expressed the opinion that the explosion was accidental.
